The departmental debriefing gives students an opportunity to summarize the details of their field experience. Current FE students present on their FE to future students and departmental faculty. Question and answer is common. Specific dates for the departmental debriefings are announced after mid-terms.

On-campus programs (MHA, MPH-HCO, MPH-HPP, and Dual MHA/MPH):

Students will prepare a one-page summary addressing the questions below. Students are strongly encouraged to attend the department’s debriefing. If you cannot attend, please inform your faculty advisor and the department administrator.

Please bring copies (approximately 10) of your summary to distribute during the debriefing. Please submit your summary to your faculty advisor and the department administrator.

Online programs (MPH-PHP, MPH-PHA):

Students are exempt from attending the debriefing but are responsible for providing a one-page summary on their experience. Please submit your summary to your faculty advisor and the department administrator.

Please address the following questions in your one-page summary:

1. Site for your FE (clients served, mission, etc.) and identify your faculty advisor.
2. Purpose of your field experience (objectives and specific activities), especially the relevance of it with regard to public health and your specific concentration.
3. What outcomes resulted from your FE (research, reports, articles, presentations, etc.)
4. Recommendations to a student considering your site for their FE—skills and knowledge required, courses they should take in advance of the placement, etc.
5. Indicate which courses in your program were the most useful in preparing for this field experience. What additional information or skills would have been useful to develop in courses to be better prepared for your FE?
6. Where you go from here (graduation, fellowship, another FE, additional graduate degree, etc.)
7. FE contact information including: website, e- and US mailing addresses, phone and fax #, name of the primary supervisor, and procedures for initiating contact.
