USF INTERNAL MEDICINE & PEDIATRIC DIVISIONS OF ALLERGY AND IMMUNOLOGY

We are very pleased to introduce you to one of our most recently recruited faculty members, Krisztian Csomos, Ph.D., Research Associate, Children's Research Institute, University of South Florida Morsani College of Medicine.

Krisztian Csomos, Ph.D.

Research Associate

Division of Allergy and Immunology

Department of Pediatrics

University of South Florida Morsani College of Medicine

Dr. Csomos is an experimental PhD scientist and molecular biologist. He has long-standing research interest and laboratory experience in clinical immunology focusing on immune dysregulation, loss of self-tolerance and autoimmunity in human primary immunodeficiency diseases. He earned his PhD in Biomedical Sciences in Hungary in 2011, followed by Post-Doctoral training in Immunology at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. He moved to Florida in 2016 with his family where he continues his research in Dr. Jolan Walter's translational research lab in the Children's Research Institute at the USF St. Pete Campus and Johns Hopkins All Children's Hospital. The lab is part of the Jeffrey Modell Center Network established by the Jeffrey Modell Foundation, thereby he is involved in the development and application of novel genetic diagnostic tests and functional assays on primary immunodeficiency diseases. He is a father of two boys and loves spending time with his family. He likes photography, cooking, grilling, wine tasting, practicing martial arts, the Florida beaches and outdoor activities.

We wish Dr. Krisztian Csomos, Ph.D. a warm welcome to the University of South Florida Morsani College of Medicine and look forward to working with him.
