Dr. David Parker
Clinical Assistant Professor,
University of Minnesota School of Public Health

“Child Labor and Public Health”

Monday, November 2, 2009
12:00 – 1:00 pm
COPH 1023A

Dr. Parker will talk about the importance of public health in understanding the origins of child labor. Dr. Parker's talk will be illustrated with photographs he has taken over the last two decades. These photographs are the most comprehensive documentation of child labor since the work of Lewis Hine in the early 20th century. Dr. Parker has published three photographic books. His work has been shown in museums throughout the United States, Canada, and in many areas of Latin America.
